Introduction
Statement &amp; purpose of policy	The purpose of this policy is: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>to set out the parameters on how staff, trustees and volunteers should use the technology provided to them in order to do their job;</li> <li>to help raise awareness of the risks associated with using IT;</li> <li>to protect Battle Scars from loss of data;</li> <li>to clarify what is acceptable and non-acceptable use of IT and what will happen if this policy is breached.</li> </ul> We have the right to monitor work use of IT equipment provided we have a legitimate reason and we inform staff we might do this.
Application	This policy applies to usage of Battle Scars computers/laptops, internet access, remote access connections, file storage, smart phones/mobile phones and tablets.
Policy
Equipment	Each Battle Scars member of staff will be provided with a Battle Scars laptop to use when carrying out work for the charity. Some laptops will be specifically designated for volunteer use with appropriate access
Passwords	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>All Battle Scars computers/laptops must be password or PIN protected as a minimum. Such passwords must be</li> </ul>

	disclosed to senior staff but must not be disclosed to anybody else including service users and volunteers. Senior staff are responsible for the safekeeping of such log-in details. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Passwords must be a minimum of 8 characters and include letters and numbers. Consecutive or repeating numbers should be avoided (e.g. 1234, 9999)</li> <li>• If an employee suspects someone else knows their password, they need to change it as soon as possible and notify their line manager. If the password/PIN has been disclosed to senior staff, they must be provided with the new password/PIN.</li> </ul>
Computer usage	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• When laptops are not being used or the member of staff is away from their desk, the lid needs to be dropped to put the laptop to sleep and staff need to log back in upon their return. This does not apply when working from home.</li> <li>• We discourage staff using their own laptops when working for the charity. If used, suitable anti-virus software must be installed. If unsure, they must not be used to carry out Battle Scars work.</li> <li>• All work for the charity must be saved on the Battle Scars One Drive [cloud storage] (or similar) as set up by the charity.</li> <li>• It is recommended that staff use personal One Drives (or similar) instead of saving personal files on the laptop's hard drive.</li> <li>• Usage of USB drives needs to be kept to a minimum and only if it's impractical to use the One Drive (or similar). For example, it might be simpler to provide a volunteer with a USB drive containing the files they require to carry out their tasks instead of providing them with appropriate access to the Battle Scars One Drive.</li> <li>• Battle Scars laptops can be taken home if required and with the CEO's permission and are the responsibility of the employee or volunteer.</li> </ul>
